International Agreement For Academic Cooperation Between
Hallym University (HU) and the University of Northern Iowa (UNI)

To promote friendly relations between the Republic of Korea and the United States of America, Hallym University (HU) and the University of Northern Iowa (UNI) join in the following agreement on educational and scholarly exchanges. Both universities agree to encourage scholarly collaboration among their faculty and to seek opportunities for student exchanges. Both universities support the following general forms of cooperation:

1. The exchange of faculty for collaborative research, for lectures and courses of mutual interest, and for curricular discussions.

2. The exchange of curricular and research materials as well as of scholarly publications, based on the identification of mutually beneficial areas of interest.

3. The exchange of undergraduate and graduate students for study and research, depending on the availability of funding and the determination of mutually interesting educational programs.

4. The development of opportunities for Korean students to study the English language in UNI's Culture and Intensive English Program (CIEP) and for American students to study the Korean language at HU.

Both universities understand that the details for each of the above points must be articulated on a case by case basis. Both universities also understand that all financial arrangements must be negotiated on a case by case basis, depending on the availability of funds for each specific program.

This agreement begins on 1 September 2002 and continues for three consecutive years, subject to modification or revision by mutual consent. Each university agrees to designate a coordinator to review annually the terms of the agreement.
